

The Roots of the Revolution: Through the Eyes of Egyptian Youth

A Live International Webcast Discussion

Monday, May 2, 2011

8:00 AM	Boston Time
1:00 PM	London Time
2:00 PM	Cairo Time
5:00 PM	Islamabad Time
10:00 PM	Sydney Time

REGISTER TODAY!
FOR THIS FREE EVENT

If your schedule does not permit you to participate in the live webcast, you can view it at your convenience at www.empowerpeace.org.

Egypt's youth were the engine that drove the revolution.

Join a discussion with over one dozen of these remarkable young leaders as they share their experiences, hopes, and aspirations for their new Egypt. Also participating in this live event, via videoconference, will be a group of American youth from Boston, Massachusetts who will be asking questions of the Egyptian youth leaders.

Be sure to have your school or classroom log-on to view and participate via Instant Messaging in this amazing discussion of the fight for freedom and democracy. The on-line discussion will be facilitated by prominent Northeastern University Professor Denis J. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan is Director of Northeastern University's International Affairs program and its Middle East Center for Peace, Culture, and Development.

To register for this free event visit www.empowerpeace.org/revolution

This free event is sponsored by: EmpowerPeace www.empowerpeace.org